

---

Department of Occupational Medicine

---

In terms of medicine, we are able to meet the requirements of similar workplaces in our field, serving as a workplace providing comprehensive and specialized occupational health services for employers in the region, as well as consulting services for general practitioners in the gradient, especially when examining their patients with methods that are not available to them. The scientific activities of the Institute are focused on the acquisition of new knowledge on traditional occupational diseases, as well as newly identified diseases related to work activities and the working environment.

Main research topics

- Long-term consequences of professional COVID-19
- Pneumoconiosis caused by various types of fibrogenic dusts

Cooperation

Department of Occupational Medicine, Olomouc University Hospital, preparation of a co-project in the field of post-COVID syndrome.